Question 14. Who have died during the past year?—Our beloved brother William C. Kirkland, fell asleep in Jesus on the 29th of March, 1864. He was born in Barnwell Dist., S. C., Jan. 6th, 1814, was converted to God in Nov. 1832, licensed to preach in Jan. 1835, admitted into the Conference in Jan. 1837, ordained Deacon Jan. 1839, ordained Elder Feb. 1841. At the close of 1859 his health being feeble, he asked from the Conference the relation of Supernumerary. At our last session to the delight of his brethren, his health permitted him to return to the active duties of the itinerancy. Alas! the term of his service was brief. Like a true soldier of the Cross, he fell in the field, at his post and with his armour on. Appointed to the Greenville Circuit, he entered upon his work with the zeal and ardour which always characterized his ministry. In the latter part of March, after preaching in one of the Churches of the Circuit, with more than his ordinary pathos and power, he became ill. On the following morning he reached the house of Dr. Wm. H. Austin, where, during two weeks he suffered from Rheumatism and Pneumonia, until at length he peacefully expired. Our dear brother was attended by Drs. Thomas C. and Wm. H. Austin and was nursed with all the careful tenderness of the warmest Christian affection. His remains repose in the Cemetary at Spartanburg. William C. Kirkland was an exceedingly amiable, sweet spirited man; a Christian resembling in the graces of his character, the innocent one to whom the Saviour pointed his disciples, and a model Methodist minister. "In his tongue was the law of kindness," and in his heart a fountain of love. His preaching had the charm of simplicity and was directed with evident singleness of purpose to the conscience of the hearer. Faithfully and lovingly, often with flowing tears and with a voice quivering with emotion, he pointed the impenitent, the mourner and the believer to the Cross of Jesus, as the only refuge of man. As a Pastor visiting sick, comforting the afflicted, advising the perplexed, praying with the tempted, and feeding the Saviours' lambs, he was remarkably successful.

Our brother died as only the true Christian can die, in perfect peace, assured of acceptance with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. His mind from dis-ease and the effect of medicine, became somewhat confused, but he was the same gentle, patient saint he had been in health. When asked if Jesus was with him in the dark valley, he replied "O yes," and so he died. The "good and faithful servant" of the Lord has gone home and is now enjoying his rest. Love weeps at our Kirkland's grave, but hope standing there, looks to Heaven and exultingly exclaims, "The voice of the archangel and the trump of God."

William M. Wilson, was admitted into the South Carolina Conference as a member on trial, in December 1860. Early after entering on his work on the City Colored Mission, Charleston, the present year, his health began to fail, rapid consumption was developed, and on the 1st September he fell asleep in Jesus. Brother Wilson was a young man of studious habits, prudent conduct, unflagging zeal and devoted piety. During his sickness he was patient and submissive, and was never heard to murmur or complain. About three hours before his death he awoke out of a sweet sleep, exclaiming "Bless the Lord O my soul, and all that is within me bless His Holy name." His wife asked him if all was well, if Jesus was with him still; he answered "The Lord is with me and I am nearly home:" in a few moments he breathed his last and was numbered with the saved in Heaven.

James F. Wilson was born in Marlboro District, S. C., February 4th, 1838, joined the Methodist Church May 1852, experienced the pardon of sins August 1853, and died in Darlington District January 18th, 1864. He was licensed to preach 1859, admitted on trial in the South Carolina Conference 1860, and was appointed the present year to Darlington Circuit. His feeble health prevented his doing full work the last two years. The more intimate friends of Brother Wilson alone can measure the loss the Church sustains in his death. He was a hearty Methodist preacher, desiring nothing else besides the life, fortunes and death of an itinerant. His heart was strong in friendship, sympathetic in affliction, and ever in the circle of christian charity. Observant of duty, diligent in privilege, scriptural in worship, ever jealous for the Church, and zealous for God, a growth in grace and usefulness marked his short, but we trust fulfilled ministry. His abandonment to Christ and the present salvation of souls when in the pulpit, may have contributed to a somewhat earlier termination of his course. Such was the clearness of his call to preach and the humble view of his abilities, so fully did he apprehend the responsibilities of the ministry and the worth of souls, that his natural earnestness imbued with the spirit of Christ, would not seemingly let him preach otherwise. But the work of a good man and a good preacher is done. With many besides, he has left a deeply bereaved wife and child to mourn his loss and follow. He spoke often of his approaching end, of his readiness and of his "precious hope" beyond. His end was truly peaceful.

Algernon Sidney Link, a native of Catawba County, N. C., died at his father's residence November 14th, 1864, in the 26 year of his age. Being religiously trained, he was from his childhood piously inclined, and united with the Church. In the latter part of the year 1859, he was admitted on trial in the South Carolina Conference, and sent to the Walterboro Circuit. He was afterwards ordained Deacon and appointed successively to Conwayboro Miss., Rockville and Lexington Circuits and Wadesboro Station. Early in the year after reaching Wadesboro, his health declined to such a degree, as to make his retirement from the work a necessity. He continued to suffer from dyspepsia and pulmonary disease, but "in patience he possessed his soul" through all his afflictions. On one occasion he remarked, that the grave would be a peaceful resting place for his body while his spirit reposed in Abraham's bosom. He was in his right mind to the last, and when near his death smiled and asked his mother to kiss him, and entreated all present to meet him in Heaven. He passed away in holy triumph an exemplary christian, and useful minister of the Gospel.

Question 15. Are all the Preachers blameless in their life and official administration?—This was carefully attended to by calling over their names severally before the Conference.

Question 16. What is the number of Preachers and Members in the several Circuits and Stations and Missions of the Conference?

Question 14. What preachers have died during the year?—Rev. Daniel A. Ogburn was born in Chesterfield, S. C. June 5th, 1833. He joined the M. E. Church, South, Oct. 10 1846, and was converted to God, near Fork Creek Meeting House, in the same district, May, 10th 1847. He was licensed to preach and admitted on trial into the S. C. Conference in 1853, and passed regularly to the orders of Deacon and Elder in the Church. Brother Ogburn was reappointed to the Society Hill Mission, for the past year, but early in the year found it impracticable to preach longer on the work and accepted a chaplaincy in the S. C. State service. In a few weeks his health proved inadequate to the hardships of Army life, and after four or five days of severe illness, during which he was utterly unconscious, he passed as we believe to that state where the smoke and din of battle are never known. Brother Ogburn, was fortunate in securing the regard and affection of the people among whom he labored, was unassuming and quiet in his deportment a good preacher and a good man.

Rev. Samuel Townsend, was born in Marlboro Dist. S. C. Oct. 29th 1814, and died in Philadelphia Penn. of inflammation of the bowels, July 31st. 1865, after an illness of forty eight hours. Brother Townsend, joined the church, in 1832 and it is believed was converted to God, about the same time at a Camp Meeting in Marion District. We have frequently heard our departed brother, relate in lovefeast, the incidents of this great event in his life, with so much clearness and feeling, as to leave no doubt as to its scriptural character. He entered the Conference as a travelling preacher in 1836. He served many of the most important charges of the Conference during the thirty years of his ministry in all which his labors were blessed more or less, in gracious revivals. For three years he was missionary to the people of color on Congaree River, and during three years he served the Conference as Tract agent. In his regular itinerant work, Sam. Townsend, acquired a ruling desire for the circulation of books. This he carried out more largely as tract agent, and it was during the latter term of service that he laid the foundation of what afterwards became an extensive book store in Columbia, and by which he conscientiously believed he was accomplishing much good. How much will he be missed among us in this as in other relations!

Our beloved brother, was a thorough Methodist in his faith, both as to doctrines and usages as well as in Christian experience and yet his views were liberal and large as to Church progress and extension. He was an earnest sound and practical preacher and preeminently a practical man. He wrought results. The charges served by him evidenced to his successor, to all, that a wise, zealous, practical, acceptable, and successful preacher had been there, so that it was often remarked of him, that he always left his charges improved. And though he was not in the regular work for several years past, it is believed he acted from firm conviction of duty. He was the fast friend of the members, of the Conference, aiding them in every possible way, and entertaining them with a warm and large-hearted hospitality. It will never be known how much he has done in this way.

His greatly bereaved wife testifies that he bore the death of his noble son in the war, and the subsequent loss of the largest portion of his earthly goods, with christian cheerfulness, frequently saying, "It is all for the best." Bro. Townsend was on his way home from the North where he had been on business, when he was arrested by disease, which baffled the skill of physicians. He was soothed in the absence of his family and brethren at home, by several ministers and friends in Philadelphia. An attached friend of another faith, a Jewish Rabbi, was with him in his last hours, and writes that though very feeble, he said "I confide in my Saviour and put my trust entirely in Him," and in his last lucid moments he exclaimed "O my Saviour! O Jesus my Saviour!"

"He rests from his labours."

Question 15. Are all the Preachers blameless in their life and official administration?—This was carefully attended to by calling over their names severally before the Conference.

RESOLUTIONS—PEOPLE OF COLOR.

BY REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

Resolved, 1. That the South Carolina Conference feels a deep and abiding solicitude in the moral and religious welfare of the colored people within our bounds, who have so long been the objects of our regard and paternal care, and that we will continue to put forth our best efforts in their service and for their good.

Resolved, 2. That the Quarterly Conferences within our bounds, are advised to grant licenses to preach and exhort to suitable persons of color, so far as may be done consistent with the laws of the State.

Resolved, 3. That the subject of providing for the supply of the religious wants of the Colored people be referred to the Presiding Bishop and Presiding Elders.

CLASS MEETINGS.

PRESENTED BY E. J. MEYNARDIE.

Resolved, That as members of the South Carolina Conference, we will endeavor to sustain Class Meeting by every laudable effort, and convince those who may be committed to our pastoral care, to adopt proper views of the institution and to discharge their duty in reference to it.

WORLDLY AMUSEMENTS.

PRESENTED BY E. J. MEYNARDIE.

Resolved, That under a grave apprehension of the danger of popular amusements, such as Theatres, Circuses, Balls, and the like, we pledge ourselves to labor to save the Church from the seductions which they present to its members, especially the younger.

W. P. Mouzon was appointed to preach the Annual Sermon before the Conference.

MINUTES.

OF THE

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE,

FOR THE YEAR 1866.

Minutes of the South Carolina Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, held at Marion, S. C., beginning December 19th 1866, and closing December 23rd 1866.

Bishop WILLIAM M. WIGHTMAN, President.

F. ASBURY MOOD, Secretary

One hundred and twelve members were present. The Sessions were opened daily with reading the Scriptures, singing and Prayer. The business was conducted in harmony, and was dispatched promptly. The entire business of the Conference was completed by Saturday night. On Sunday morning the Deacons were ordained and the Elders in the afternoon, by Bishop Wightman. On Sunday night the services memorial of the five ministers who had died during the year, were conducted by Whitfoord Smith, after which the Bishop addressed the Conference, and announced the appointments for the ensuing year. The Conference and congregation united in singing the Doxology, and were dismissed with the Benediction from the Bishop.

Question 14. What Preachers have died during the year?

Cornelius McLeod, died at his residence in Richland district, on the 9th of April 1866. In the death of this good man, the church of which he was a minister, has sustained a great loss. It is due to the memory of the deceased, and to the church in which he so long labored with zeal and faithfulness, that a brief sketch of his life and labors should be given. He was not blessed in youth with advantages necessary to secure a good education. Having attended school but a few weeks in his life, he succeeded, nevertheless, by hard study, and close application to large acquirements; without the assistance of an instructor, he acquired a knowledge of several of the ancient, and modern languages. At the time of his death he was engaged in translating a book of sermons from the French. Devoted to books, very industrious, and having a retentive memory, he was pronounced by capable judges, one of the best read men of his age.

But our brother professed that which was far more important than human learning, a sanctified heart. When but a boy he joined the church, and at the early age of sixteen was licensed to exhort. Entering the conference in 1837, he was ordained deacon in 1839, and elder in 1841. For nearly thirty years he was a faithful and zealous laborer in his master vineyard, through heat and cold, over mountains, and in swamps, in the city and in the country to the learned and the unlearned, he preached Jesus and the resurrection. His last appointment was to the Richland Fork mission, on which he labored acceptably until stricken down by disease, and when rendered unfit for the active duties of his calling, he retired to his study to prepare for greater usefulness in the event of his recovery. He was a very successful laborer, and was much beloved by those for whom he labored. Remarkably amiable, he won without effort the affections of those with whom he was associated, And now, though he has passed away, he lives, where all ministers should desire to live, in the hearts of his people.

Doubtful as to the time of his natural birth he was very certain that on the 15th, July 1832, Cornelius McLeod, was born of God.

Much of his success in the ministry, may be attributed to his sound christian experience. He could say with St. Paul, that he knew the gospel to be the power of God, unto Salvation, to every one that believeth. Through life he took the word of God, as the man of his counsel.

In preparing for the great work of the ministry, he seemed to have followed closely the instructions of Paul to Timothy, and studied to show himself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth, and when the time of his departure was at hand could say with the former, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. During a long and painful illness, which he bore with Christian fortitude and patience, he testified that the grace which he had so often recommended to others was sufficient for him. He did not fear death's approach, but leaning, by faith, upon the arm of his Saviour, passed safely over the dark waters to the happy abode of the blessed.

John Wesley Miller, was born in the city of Charleston, October, 27th, 1829; and died in the village of Darlington, S. C. June 20th, 1866.

Our beloved brother was remarkable through life for his ardent piety, his love of purity, and devotion to principal. He was blameless, and harmless, a son of God, without rebuke from early childhood until the hour of his dismissal from the trials and cares of earth. One of his bretheren in the ministry, who was his playmate in childhood, his companion in college, and his colleague in conference, says of him. "I never heard him utter a word, I never saw him do an act, that was unchristian or improper. When a little boy he was so good and gentle that he seemed to be a wanderer from a better world seeking for his home. In college his seriousness, his conscientiousness, his manly avowal of christian principles, his fondness for things spiritual and themes divine, subjected him to no small amount of prosecution, which he bore with the meekness of a true disciple of the Lamb of God, continuing stedfast and immoveable."

Our deceased brother entered the ministry in 1850, and was licentiate, deacon, and elder, on stations, circuits, missions and in the Army as chaplain of hospitals, always the same faithful, devoted servant of the Saviour, ever an uncompromising champion of the Cross. He sought occasions to work and speak and think of Christ. Duty was Wesley Miller's delight labor his refreshment. Large hearted, progressive and hopeful, he rejoiced to see sings of church extension and cordially favored measures looking to the more extensive diffusion of Wesleyan Theology, which he believed to be Christianity in earnest, the spirit of Jesus in the souls of believers. Feeling the importance of mental culture, he was an active, deeply, interested member of literary societies, a warm friend of our schools and colleges. As a teacher our brother spared no pains to instruct his pupils striving by various expedients and with unwearied patience to allure the young to the fountains of knowledge. An admirable Sunday School Superintendent, his lectures to the scholars were adapted to their capacities and fed the Lords lambs. As a preacher he was kind, earnest, practical, simple and loving. The preciousness of Jesus to believers was his favorite theme. His highest ambition was to preach him to all and cry in death, behold the Lamb.

Rev. John David Weaver Crook, was born in Orangeburg District, So. Ca. Oct. 16th, 1820, and died May 1st, 1866. He embraced religion and joined the M. E. Church when about 22 years of age, and subsequently he received license from the Q. Conference of the Cypress Circuit. He exercised his office for several years as a local preacher to the satisfaction and profit of his hearers and at the close of the year 1851, he was admitted on trial in the S. C. Conference by the unanimous vote of that body. He labored faithfully and studied diligently, and was ordained deacon and elder respectively as soon as he became eligible in 1852, and 1853, he served the Cooper River, Ct. in '54, '55, '56, '57, '58, and '59, Savannah River Mission; in '60, and '61, Walterboro Circuit, in '62, and '63, Providence Circuit; in '64, Black-swamp Circuit; in 1865, he was appointed to St. Bartholomews Ct. But on the advance of the Federal Army, in Jan., he left, and returned to his native district for refuge where he spent the remaining part of the year in teaching school and preaching at the surrounding churches as opportunity offered. He was sent the present year to Eastern Orange Circuit, where he arrived in good time and entered upon his work faithfully and zealously, and was well received by the people. About two weeks before his death, he was attacked with a severe stroke of Paralysis, and was almost totally unconscious throughout his illness. Whenever, however, there was a period of partial consciousness, he would give evidence of his resignation to the will of his Master, and his readiness to depart; and having given some directions in reference to his burial and the education of his children, he calmly fell asleep.

Rev. William Abney McSwain was born in Montgomery, now Stanley Co., N. C., Nov. 5th, 1814; was converted at Center Camp Ground, in Center, now Albemarle Circuit, South Carolina Conference, Sept. 28th, 1831; joined the Methodist Church, in October following, at New Hope; was licensed to preach May 21st, 1836, at Mt. Carmel, in the same circuit, and was admitted on trial in the South Carolina Conference during the session which closed the ecclesiastical year of 1838.

He labored as Junior Preacher in 1839, on Montgomery, in 1840 on Rockingham Circuit, was ordained Deacon in Camden at the ensuing session of the Annual Conference. He was in charge of appointments henceforward to the end of his laborious life. In 1865 he labored on Laurens Circuit. At the last session of the Conference he was re-appointed to Laurens Circuit. Not having sufficiently recovered from physical affliction, he failed to attend the last session of the Conference when he was re-appointed to Laurens Circuit. This is the only time during a membership of twenty-seven years when he did not answer a roll-call the first day of each session.

Though the Conference was deprived of his cheering presence and helping counsel and labors, he continued to labor on his charge, connecting by preaching, the last with the present Conference year. The intelligence of his re-appointment found him already at work. In his habitual punctuality and characteristic cheerfulness he began the labors of the year with even more than ordinary zeal and hope.

On November 26th—the Sabbath day—he was travelling to an appointment with his colleague, whose horse became so frightened at the running of a cow at the road side as to induce Brother McSwain to leap from his buggy for safety. Not clearing the buggy successfully, he fell with his weight mainly on one leg, which was broken just above the ankle. By early aid the limb was set, and he was carried to his home at the parsonage, in Laurensville, the next day. His suffering was intense. The skill of physicians and attention of friends were unavailing; typhoid diarrhœa supervened, and 15 minutes after 1 o'clock, January 1st, 1866, he died “in great peace” and strong hope. Repeatedly, and with emphasis, he declared he had not served God in vain, and in anticipation of the saints’ rest, so long the object of hope, but now nearly seen, he employed some of his last moments and waning strength in announcing, though in low accents, the character of the state upon which he was entering; “glory, glory,” was his pass-word as he crossed the river Jordan. He has entered into rest, Beides the trustworthiness indicated in his appointments, he served as a delegate to the last two session of the General Conference, and was elected to that which was to meet in 1862, and was at the time of his death President of the Sunday School Society of the So. Ca. Conference.

Few men, with similar disadvantages, ever attained that measure of ability, degree of eminence, and width of popularity which constituted that honor which was so cheerfully and universally awarded by the church and world to this-self made man. Ambitious and assiduous, his gifted and vigorous mind, early and late, eagerly sought to know “the wisdom and reason of things.” In the itienrant university, in his voluminous and varied reading, and in his critical observation, he learned much where others would not have seen the lesson. His excellent common sense and acquaintance with human nature enabled him, in his sagacity, to pass smoothly among men and to dispose wisely of things. He could do these as well as he could read books and preach sermons.

Possessed of great versatility of genius, gifted with rare social qualities and conversational powers, and blessed a with singular descriptive faculty, he was well qualified, from his vast fund of general information, to give life, interest and edification to the fireside or social circle. His flexible and sausive mind could, without any apparent effort, so adjust itself to any society, condition, or subject, as to make it manifest that he and the company were, at home. His appearance in the pulpit, his engaging address, flow of language, and tone of voice, and ease and naturalness of manner—his own interest in the subject, with the general persuasiveness of his style, gave to his sermons which evinced much thought and research, a popularity which was only equalled by the great popularity of the preacher himself. He was a popular divine with all sects of christians and all classes of people.

In his great desire to know the reason of things, to understand the relations and dependencies of the phenomena of matter and mind, he cultivated, espe-dially in the latter years of his ministry, the metaphysical propension of his mind. Feeling called mainly to enlighten, it was his delight to show the reason for, and the wisdom in, the facts and laws of mind and matter, and lead the audience to preceive the grand agreement in the works, providence and law of God, the Creator. But he was none the less able in preaching Christ and him crucified. The same ability and learning were manifest in the "fountains" of the christian's hope, the necessity of a revelation, the divinity, death, resurrection and exaltation of Christ.

And according to his own oft-uttered sentiment to me, for what he was and what he did, and what he hoped to be, and have and do in the future of time and eternity, he was wholly indebted to God and his church.

He left, with four children, a devoted, sincere christian wife, who throughout his ministerial life, shared without complaining the labors and sacrifices of the itinerant life. The mother and children are all in the Methodist Church and more than others can they feel the heavy loss sustained in the death of the devoted and affectionate husband and father. A pious and useful citizen, a hard christian student, an able minister, of the gospel, and by God's gifts and grace a self made, a great and good man has fallen. Truly, he fell at his post.

"The voice at midnight came.
He started up to hear;
A mortal arrow pierced his frame;
He fell—but felt no fear.

Soldier of Christ, well done!
Praise be thy new employ;
And while eternal ages run,
Rest in thy Saviour's joy."

Rev. Hilliard Crawford Parsons, of the South Carolina Conference, died of consumption, in Wadesboro', N. C., January 29th, 1866.

He was born in Sumter District, Feb. 28 1824, and joined the South Carolina Conference January, 1847.

At the last Conference held in Columbia, in 1860, he took a supernumerary relation, which he sustained until his death. He was one of the children of the church—his father having been one of the ministers—and in the absence of positive information, we take it for granted that his mother was one of her members. Yielding to the gracious influences which were brought to bear upon him, he remembered his Creator in the days of his youth, and consecrated himself to his service. Here commenced a christian life, which was distinguished for devotion to the church, and arduous duties performed in her service; the power of pulpit ministrations, and the success with which they were crowned; the intensity of physical sufferings, and the patience with which they were borne. But this life was not more remarkable for the devotion, suffering, efforts, and achievements, which marked its progress, than for the grandeur of its peaceful and triumphant close. He loved the church of his choice. He admired her government, usages and doctrines. There was no feature of this Methodistic economy which he admired more than the itinerancy. Could he have followed the inclinations of his own heart he would have fallen in the itinerant ranks. But that fatal disease seized him, and for years he gradually declined, until he saw the necessity of changing his relation, and taking a field less extensive and less exacting in its claims. In this new field he watched the interests intrusted to his guardianship, and "wielded a two edged blade, of heavenly temper keen," until his Captain bade him "quit the sword and take the crown." When in health, his cheerfulness, amiability, affable manners, and superior conversational powers, combined to make him an ornament in the social circle, while his intelligence, gentlemanly deportment, and exalted christian virtues made him an influential and useful member of the community in which he lived. Endowed with a vigorous intellect, and indefatigable energy, and having trained his mind to habits of patient thought, and this intellect, energy and thought having been quickened, sanctified and directed by Divine grace, it is not remarkable that his ministry was characterized by ability and success. Those who had the pleasure of hearing him in his best days, can bear testimony to his ability, and the scores who have been converted under his ministry, a number of whom are members of this Conference, are the living witnesses of his success. His favorite pulpit themes were the cardinal doctrines of the New Testament as taught by his church. He seemed to have a clear conception of these truths, and before the great congregation, he defended them with ability and urged them with singular pathos and power. Though an able defender of the faith, his sermons did not lack energy, animation and fire, elegance of expression and delivery, the absence of which is sometimes a peculiarity with doctrinal preachers. He happily united the qualities of the able debater and the attractive orator. His propositions were clearly stated, and sustained by the conclusive reasoning of the one, and sufficiently adorned by the embellishments of the other. This rare combination rendered him one of the most popular preachers in the Conference of which he was a member. He possessed the rare gift of pleasing the different classes. The unthinking throng was charmed with his apposite language and striking illustration; the more thoughtful were convinced by his cogent reasoning, and the truly devout were edified by the pure word delivered "in demonstration of the spirit and with power." The leading characteristics of his preaching were elegance, strength and unction. His sermons were remarkable for the uniformity of their excellence. Nearly every effort was a success. Nor was he distinguished alone for the ability and success of his pulpit ministrations, but for his wisdom in counsel, and administrative capacity. But in the meridian of life, he was removed from the itinerant's field to the invalid's limited sphere; from the pulpit to the sick room. In his affliction and death he exemplified the truth of that he had preached in life. One of the most prominent features of his christian character was unshaken confidence in the atonement of Jesus Christ. He would often say, "all I have done is nothing. I trust only in Christ for salvation." Several days before his death he did not seem to enjoy as much ecstasy as he had done, owing, doubtless, to his great mental anxiety about his family, and his intense physical suffering; yet in the absence of this rapture and joy, he would say: "I trust in Christ for the future." When asked if he enjoyed the same comfort he had spoken of before, he replied, "peace, peace." He was a great sufferer, but he was patient to the end. Often when his frail frame was writhing in intense agony, he would express a desire to die, but on reflection, he would say, in the language of his suffering Master, "not my will but thine be done." A short time before he died, at his request, his family came very near his bedside, and he gave them his dying charge, and breathed on them his dying prayer. He spoke tenderly to his sorrowing wife, and told her to raise the children in the fear of God. He took each of his children by the hand and gave them a father's counsel and blessing. When the youngest was brought, he looked upon the dear little boy with a solicitude which only a parent could feel, and breathed a most touching prayer for him. He then said—"I feel that I have trusted in the Saviour, and that I have not trusted him in vain. I believe I shall soon come off more than conqueror and be at rest. Glory to God." On being asked if he had any message to send to the Conference or to any of its individual members, he replied, "I would like to send messages to several of my friends if I had strength to talk; but I want them all to understand that I died in the faith of the Gospel, praising Him for all that is past and trusting Him for all that is to come." "Mark the perfect man and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace."

Question 15. Are all the preachers blameless in life and official administration? This was carefully attended to by calling over their names severally before the Conference.

Question 16. What is the number of preachers and members in the several Circuits, Stations, and Missions, of the Conference?

RESOLUTIONS.—MINUTES.

PRESENTED BY A. G. STACY.

Resolved, That the preachers in charge of circuits, stations and missions shall collect during the ensuing Conference year, from each of one of the Churches under their care, such an amount as the members and friends are willing to contribute for the publication of the Minutes of our next Annual Session, and that each Church contributing shall in due time be furnished with copies of the Minutes to the value of the amount advanced.

FAST DAYS.

PRESENTED BY W. A. GAMEWELL.

Resolved, That the first Friday in April and September of the ensuing year, be set apart as days of fasting and prayer, and that upon those occasions, special supplication be made to Almighty God for the outpouring of His Spirit upon the Church, and the thrusting out additional laborers into His vineyard; and the publication be made in the Southern Christian Advocate, and other papers friendly to the cause, for six weeks preceding.

DISTRICT MEETINGS.

PRESENTED BY O. A. DARBY.

Resolved, In case the Annual Conferences shall ratify the action of the General Conference in reference to lay-representation, that each Presiding Elder shall call together the members of his Quarterly Conference, at some suitable time and place within the bounds of his district, once during the year.

Resolved, That the District Meetings be empowered to elect laymen to represent the District in the Annual Conference.

COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION.

A. M. Shipp, Chairman H. M. Mood, James Stacy; T. R. Walsh, C. Betts
 ANNUAL REPORT.

WOFFORD COLLEGE, SPARTANBURG C. H., S. C.

The first session of the 13th Collegiate year commenced in this Institution on the first day of October last, with a patronage of fifty students in the College and Preparatory school. Their progress in studies during the year has been satisfactory to the Faculty, and their moral deportment unexceptionable. Many were the subjects of a gracious revival of religion during the month of October, and these, added to the number of those who were antecedently members of the Church, leave a comparatively small number in the Institution who are not now professors of religion. The course of studies and the standard of scholarship remain unchanged, but the Faculty now admit into the Institution irregular students or those who wish to pursue particular studies.

The Trustees on the 4th of July established a new Professorship to be called the Professorship of History and Biblical Literature, and the Rev. A. H. Lester, A. M., a member of the Conference, was elected to fill it. A Divinity School was at the same time established and placed under the supervision of Rev. A. M. Shipp D. D. Rev. Whitefoord Smith, D. D., and Rev. A. H. Lester A. M. The next session of the College and the Schools will begin on the 8th January, 1867. The Faculty is composed of Rev. A. M. Shipp, D. D., President and Prof. of Mental and Moral Science; David Duncan, A. M., Professor of Ancient Languages and Literature; Rev. Whitefoord Smith, D. D., Professor of English Literature; J. H. Carlisle, A. M., Professor of Mathematics; Warren Du Pre, A. M., Professor of Natural Science; Rev. A. H. Lester, A. M., Professor of History and Biblical Literature.

The following is the Board of Trustees: W. A. Gamewell, A. M. Shipp, J. R. Pickett, C. Betts, W. P. Mouzon, H. M. Mood, W. G. Conner, H. Wofford, W. J. T. Miller, S. Bobo, J. H. Dogan, G. W. Williams, Robt. Bryce.

COLUMBIA FEMALE COLLEGE.

The Committee on Education recommend that the Rev. W. C. Power be appointed by this Conference to examine specifically into the liabilities and assets of the Columbia Female College, and in consultation with the Trustees to devise means for payment, and also to obtain an inventory of the furniture outside the College and to ascertain who holds it—and to see that the pianos are rented or sold as shall best subserve the interests of the College—and to arrange for the opening of the College as soon as the debts of the Institution can be adjusted.

Trustees.—R. J. Boyd, A. M. Chrietzberg, J. Stacy, C. H. Pritchard, W. H. Fleming; W. G. Conner, T. R. Walsh, W. T. Capers, N. Talley, F. A. Mood, E. J. Meynardie, D. J. Simmons, E. G. Gage, R. Bryce, Dr. J. W. Parker General W. Wallace, Hon J. S. Preston, E. J. Arthur, R. D. Senn, A. F. Dubard, W. Glaze, Dr. A. N. Talley, Dr. C. H. Miot, Col. L. D. Childs, Maj. D. B. Miller.

SPARTANBURG FEMALE COLLEGE.

This Institution after temporary suspension was re-opened on the 9th of May last, with a small patronage, because several schools conducted by worthy and competent teachers in the town had sprung up and taken off the day scholars. The number of students, however, is increasing, and it is hoped that its former prosperity and usefulness will at no distant day be restored. A fine climate, healthy location and competent Faculty recommend this College to public patronage.

The Faculty consists of Rev. A. W. Cummings, D. D., Mrs Isabella H. Cummings, Miss Alice M Sheldon, and Miss Sue V. R. Sheldon.

Trustees.—S. Bobo, A. W. Walker, A. H. Lester, C Murchison, T. G. Herbert, J. A. Porter, Manning Brown, W. S. Black, W. Du Pre, T. O. P. Vernon, A. H. Kirby, J. W. Wilson, John A. Lee.

CAROLINA FEMALE COLLEGE.

During the academic year which ended on the 30th May last, there were received into this Institution at different times 65 pupils, and the present session has had an average patronage of about 60. Bright hopes are entertained by the Faculty and Trustees of still increased patronage and prosperity in consequence of the good health that prevailed in the College during the past year and other favoring circumstances. The committee recommend a concurrence on the part of the Conference in the following resolutions of the Board of Trustees, and the appointment of Rev. T. A. Boone, as Chaplain and Agent for the College :

Resolved, That we, the Board of Trustees of C. F. College, make this proposition to the South Carolina Conference, that we will pay off the indebtedness of the College' upon the condition that the Conference will authorise the Board of Trustees, to execute a deed of Trust of the College and the property belonging thereto, to the individual members of the Board of Trustees, who loan the money, to secure them in the payment of the principal and interest at some future time, and that the Conference put an agent in the field and continue him there, until he shall secure the money to release the College from the trusts. The agent to be paid for his services under the original agreement made with the old Board of Trustees.

Faculty.—Rev. J. E. Blankenship, President; T. S. Smith, Professor; Mrs Emma Cannon, Teacher of Music; Mis Z. Blankenship, Ornamental Department; Miss Fannie Burns, Preparatory School.

Trustees.—Col. W. G. Smith, Purdie Richardson, E. G. Kendall, W. C. Smith, W. P. Kendall, C. Wooly, T. A. Boon, F. M. Kennedy, R. R. Pegues, W. C. Power, P. E. of Wadesboro Dist, P. C. of Wadesboro, Ansonville Ct. and Wadesboro Station.

DAVENPORT FEMALE COLLEGE.

The first session of this Institution, located in Lenoir, N. C., for the year 1866, commenced on Feb. 28th, and the second session closed on Nov. 12th. The past year has been a successful one for the College. Seventy-eight pupils have matriculated during the year. Five young ladies were graduated at the Commencement. The friends of the Institution confidently predict for it still greater prosperity for the next year than has attended it during the last.

Faculty.—Rev. J. R. Griffith, President; Rev. Samuel A. Weber, Professor; L. F. Whitaker, Professor of Music; Mrs C. A. Wilber, Teacher of Liturture department Miss S. Rankin Teachr of Drawing and Painting; A. A. Scroggs, M. D., Lecturer no Anatomy, etc.

Trustees.—Rev. Messrs J. W. North, P. F. Kistler, A. J. Cauthen, A. McCorquodale, A. G. Stacy, and G. W. Ivy; Colonel E. W. Jones, Colonel J. C. Harper, S. Dula, Esq. Nelson Powell and Azor Shell.

Visiting Committee.—P. G. Bowman, S. Lander, A. J. Stafford.

COKESBURY SCHOOL.

Has, during the past year under the rectorship of Rev. S. B. Jones and Captain Smith, had a pleasant year. The number of pupils on account of the stringent times has been small. It is desirable and practicable to make this old and valued Institution of learning what it should be a well patronised and useful agency in the cause of literature and religion.

The Trustees are—Laymen, F. A. Connor, Chas. Smith, G. W. Hodges, F. F. Gary.

Clerical, S Leard, S. B. Jones' W. A. Lawton, S. H. Browne, and T. Ray-sor.

The Committee respectfully request the presiding Bishop to appoint the Rev. H. M. Mood, as Principal of the State Normal and High School of Charleston, Rev. A. G. Stacy as President of the Mecklenburg Female College, and the Rev. W. G. Conner as Principal of Orangeburg Female Academy, as Institutions worthy of public patronage and promising great usefulness to the Church and country.

In conclusion, the committee beg leave to offer for adoption by the Conference, the following resolutions, viz:

1. That the presiding Bishop be respectfully requested to appoint to our Institutions of learning, such members of the Conference as have been elected by the several Boards of Trustees to fill chairs of instruction.

2. That as a body of Christian ministers, we will use our best endeavors and most active exertions to promote the interests of our Institutions of learning, recommending them in all our pastoral intercourse, obtaining for them as many students as possible, and heartily co-operating in raising such funds as have been voted by the Conference.

COMMITTEE ON CHURCH EXTENTION.

A. M. Shipp, Chairman C. Betts, J. Stacy, J. R. Pickett, D. J. Simmons.

THE CONSTITUTION

OF THE

DOMESTIC BOARD OF MISSIONS,

OF THE

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE,

M. E. CHURCH SOUTH.

Article 1. This Board shall consist of a President, and three vice Presidents, a Secretary, a Treasurer, and twelve Managers, who shall be members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, six of whom shall be laymen and be elected quadrennially by the South Carolina Conference, but should the Conference fail to meet at the appointed time the Board shall continue in office till the election, or appointment of its successors.

Article 2. The Board shall have power to make regulations for its own proceedings, to appropriate money to the support of the missions embraced in the bounds of the Conference, and to defray incidental expenses, together with the Report of the action of the Board annually, and make such recommendations, for the contraction, or discontinuance of Missions to the Conference, as it may seem proper.

Article 3. Seven members at all meetings of the Board shall constitute a quorum.

Article 4. The Board shall keep a journal of all its proceedings and the minutes of each meeting shall be signed by the presiding officer and the Secretary.

Article 5. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to journalize the proceedings of the Board, to conduct its correspondence, to prepare and superintend, as far as possible, the publication of proceedings and annual Report in the minutes and otherwise as the Board or Conference may direct.

Article 6. The Treasurer shall hold all moneys of the Board in his possession in safe deposits with such instructions as the Board may direct, and in absence of such direction, as he may judge safe and convenient, which deposits shall be made by him as an officer of the Board, and subject to his drafts as such, and his successors in office. He shall furnish an annual Report to be published with the annual report of the Secretary, and also amount received for Foreign Missionary Board.

Article 7. In case of vacancy in the Board, it shall proceed to nominate, and the Conference to elect, if they choose, till the Board be full.

Article 8. The Board shall meet at the call of the President, or Vice President, at the seat of the South Carolina Conference on the day preceeding the first day of the first session of said Conference, provided it be not on Sunday. In that case it shall meet on the Saturday before.

The Board of managers were elected to serve for the ensuing four years.

Chas. Betts, President; H. M. Mood, 1st. vice President; R. J. Boyd, 2d. vice President; J. R. Pickett, 3d. vice president; Thos. Raysor, Secretary; W. G. Conner, Treasurer; W. P. Mouzon, S. H. Browne, W. H. Fleming, C. H. Prichard, J. W. Kelly, P. G. Bowman, Laymen; L. Chapin, J. W. Latimer, — Claywell, Dr. Rembert, Samuel Stevenson, J. M. Carlisle.

On Friday evening Nov. 21st. the Annual Meeting in reference to Missions was held, the following report was adopted, and was followed by addresses from E. W. Sehon, E. H. Myers, and W. Smith.

MISSIONARY REPORT.

The Board of Managers hail, but not as formerly, another anniversary of this venerable Society. Once they rejoiced in an increasing revenue, a growing membership, and catechumens under its fostering care. Each return of this auspicious day, found them mapping out new fields of blessed toil, devising means for their supply, thanking God and taking courage. But from causes needless to narrate, a great change has come over us, and mourn, as we may, the loss of worldly wealth, thousands mourn more bitterly the blight fallen upon our once fruitful mission fields. It would advantage us little to enumerate our losses as we once counted our gains; and we allude to them simply to urge increased vigor in the prosecution of missionary enterprise, for though cast down we are not destroyed. The success or failure of Christian missions is not the ground or reason for their prosecution. Many would seem to think it was; hence the long delay of success in foreign fields, or the wide spread ruin that has overtaken our domestic work, may be seized upon by some as a reason for their abandonment altogether. A godless world in its natural hostility to the Church of Christ opposes Christian missions; but this would not be discouraging in itself the fear is that the Church of Christ may unconsciously lend that godless world its aid. Many favorable to missions may not see or express very clearly the true ground the Church occupies in prosecuting them. Long has this utilitarian age demanded the facts and figures indicative of success: these wanting, no high sounding rhetoric will satisfy, not even a command from heaven encourage the movement. But we hesitate not to declare, no degree, of success is the proper incentive to the duty; no degree of failure the reason for abandonment. The subordinate in the field, questions at his peril, the command of his superior. It is his to obey, let the result be victory or defeat. The Church by her very charter is a Missionary Society; the command of her Lord is "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." The reason and warrant for preaching the gospel in christendom, is precisely the same for preaching the gospel in pagan lands. In neither case is success or failure in saving souls the measure of her duty; but simply the command of her Lord, who for this one great end hath organized the church, "that always, and to the end of the world, she may teach all nations, and preach the gospel to every creature." If there be hesitancy therefore on her part to prosecute the work, because of the want of success, difficulty, or cost of the enterprise, she is recreant to her trust, and cannot look for the divine blessing on her operations at home. The cry from many quarters is, better let the heathen alone; but they will not be let alone; the great movements of commercial enterprise invade the remotest parts of the earth, and the vices of civilization, unrelieved by its virtues, prey upon the savage. Besides, we have no choice; the command is "Go," and, "into all the world," and preach the gospel to every creature.

The love of Christ is expansive in its nature; no limits and bounds restrain it, hence we wonder not that the heart under its influence exclaims, "The world is my parish." This love urges to service. And the outlay of ones best efforts for anothers good is the glory of our holy Christianity. According to her teachings, true dignity consists not in robes of State, or insignia of office, but in ministering to the wants of the race. Angels are ministering spirits. The Saviour himself came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and taught his disciples "he that will be chief among you let him be your servant,." So we are not surprised at St. Paul's exclamation, "I am debtor both to the Greek and to the barbarian; both to the wise and the unwise, and that he should declare "as much as in me is," his readiness to preach the gospel in "the regions beyond."

In no age of the church has there ever been a lack of men to illustrate the same spirit: the lack of means has been the chief hinderance to the advance of the gospel. And no wonder; for no abiding affection, for two objects diametrically opposed can exist in the same heart. The love of gold will inevitably supplant the love of Christ. A church may be "rich and increased in goods and have need of nothing," and yet like lukewarm Laodicea, be powerless to advance Christ's kingdom. Another like Symrna may have "tribulation and poverty,," and the record of the Spirit be, "but thou are rich,," with the assurance that upon continued fidelity the crown of life was certain. Like the church of Macedonia the grace of God may be manifest when "In a great trial of affliction the abundance of their joy and their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their liberality." Poverty then, even the deepest, is no excuse for neglecting the command of the Saviour. In this view, it is painful to the considerate mind, even if poverty is prevalent, to hear the common vulgarity, "missions are played out." A saying, it is feared, that has deterred many a Christian minister from presenting and urging their claims upon the bounty of the church. The business of the prophet of the Lord is to teach. All timidity, sensitiveness, fear of the reproach of self-seeking, are out of place in this connection. St. Paul, whatever may have been the degree of self-abandonment he practiced, lest the gospel should be hindered, failed not to declare the whole duty of the church, and startled the Corinthians with the declaration, that if he preached the gospel to them freely "he robbed other churches, taking wages of them" to do it. At this juncture the trumpet should give no uncertain sound. It is said that commercial ruin has overtaken the country; "we have no money and cannot give!" If true, this is a sufficient answer both to God and man; but if not true, it is intolerable hypocrisy towards both. Can it be true, when "silks rustle and jewels shine" as of yore, when all demands that luxury and pride and commercial enterprise make are without a murmur—God's calls and the claims of the gospel are alone ignored? This should not be. The Lord's portion of a man's substance must be insisted on, and the offering of the lame and sick, and the blind scouted from the sanctuary. Every man makes provision for the claims upon his income, so much for the cost of living, luxury, dress—how much for his religion? In innumerable cases it is the tithe of nothing. St. Paul urges "as we have opportunity do good to all men," exhort to be "rich in good works," ready to distribute. In the light of the scriptures, none can escape the obligation; no duty is enjoined more forcibly, none urged more frequently, and yet alas! what are the facts! War, luxury, and vice absorb the revenues of earth; sin, self, and satan all make their claims upon one's income and are unhesitatingly met—the honor of Christ, and the good of the world alone ignored. To get the merest dribblets of one's bounty, strong appeals to passion, prejudice and pride must be made, and the gift not at all proportionate to the giver's ability, wonderfully exalts his self appreciation. Oh! humanity, christianized humanity, is this right? Every lover of Christ is bound to honor Him; he is obliged to help in the advancement of His kingdom. Ministers are not alone responsible, "wo to them if they preach not the gospel," wo to others if in their farms and workshops and the marts of trade they ignore its claims. The spirit of Christianity is a spirit of self sacrifice, and he is no Christian who cannot deny himself. The spirit of benevolence is one of its crowning graces; the scriptures are crowded with incentives to the duty; precept, promise and example all urge it; from the example of the widow's mite, in the balances of the sanctuary out weighing the shekel, to that of the God man dying upon the cross. The Saviour said, "take heed and beware of covetousness." The church has need to learn its great danger, and in these Southern lands under Divine Providence she is being taught, "that a man's life," that is, the good of it, "consisteth not in the abundance of the things he possesseth." God hath arisen in the majesty of a rebuker, and the hoarded treasure hath vanished; yet we still live, and with higher hopes of that blessed inheritance, beyond the reach of war's devastations and governmental misrule. An enlarged benevolence must be the result of an avoidance of this sin, and a consecration of a portion of ones substance to the Lord must fill a depleted treasury to aid in the advance of the gospel. Men must know that if the Lord's claims are not met, they will meet judgment even in this life; they will pay them in loss of property, bad harvests, security debts, and such like. So taught the prophets of old. "Ye have sown much and bring in little, why? I did blow upon it, saith the Lord of hosts." "He that earneth wages earneth wages to put it into a bag with holes. I called for a drouth upon all the labors of thy hands." This follows, inevitably, from offering the lame, and the sick, and the blind in sacrifice. "Offer it now to thy Governor, will he be pleased with thee, or accept thy person? saith the Lord of hosts." The worst that can be said of covetousness is that it is idolatry, transferring the confidence that should be in God to gold, and leaving in the midst of Christendom a baser idolatry than among benighted pagans. Fine gold becomes a man's hope, and directly in the face of the teachings of the Saviour, he makes the good of his life to consist in his abundance, which abundance is exposed to loss, and even if retained, cannot minister to the supreme wants of his being, while on the other hand, he that maketh the Great God his trust, hath always the eternal Father's superintending care—then comes unhesitating self sacrifice, compliance with every law of the gospel, and a full acknowledgement of the great truth in opposition to a godless world's opinion that the little that a righteous man hath is better than the riches of many wicked. Under divine protection the handful of meal in the barrel ceases not, and the cruse of oil supplies the necessities of God's children. In view, then, of the fact that the prosecution of the missionary enterprise is in simple obedience to the commands of the Saviour, and because of the expansiveness of Christians charity, and it being the bounden duty of Christians to consecrate their substance, as well as themselves, to the Lord, in order to do good, as well as to save themselves from the sin of covetousness, we unhesitatingly urge church to an increased liberality.

Pour forth the oil, pour boldly forth, it will not fail, until "Thou fairest vessels to provide, which it may largely fill.
 Make channels for the stream of love, where they may broadly run
 And love has over flowing streams, to fill them every one.
 But if at any time we cease such channels to provide,
 The very fountains of love for us, will soon be parched and dried;
 For we must share, if we would keep that blessing from above.
 Ceasing to give, we cease to love, such, is the law of love."

We have under our supervision eight missions, seven to the whites and one to the colored people:

Graniteville Mission, was served by Rev. J. R. Pickett, it is a mission to whites. He reports it in a flourishing condition.

Silverton Mission, discontinued.

Wateree Mission, was served by Rev. J. L. Shuford. He reports whites 38, and colored 395. There is one Sabbath school with 84 scholars. Received for missions 865.

Richland Fork Mission, was served by Rev. M. Brown. He reports 200 whites and 220 colored members.

Saluda River Mission, was served by Rev. W. H. Lawton. This is a mission to the whites—no statistical report.

Waccamaw Mission, was served by Rev. C. Betts. He made a verbal report of the condition of the work. It was incorporated with the Waccamaw circuit.

South Mountain Mission, no report. It was continued.

Several new missions were established, mainly, to the whites.

FINANCIAL PLAN.

1. It shall be the duty of the Church Extension Committee, in conjunction with a committee of two from the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society, two from the Board of Managers of the Sunday School Society, and two from the Joint Board of Finance, to ascertain at each session of the Annual Conference, what amounts shall be collected during the ensuing Conference year, for the several interests above named, in conjunction with the Presiding Elders of the several Districts; to apportion the same to the several charges within the Conference District, and each Preacher in charge shall furnish his successor with the amount apportioned to said charge. The distribution of the Fund at the next Conference to be made by the several Boards and Committees having Charge of those interests.

2. Each Preacher shall make all necessary efforts to collect the money apportioned to his charge by the Board.

3. The Preacher in charge of each Circuit, shall (at the close of the Conference year,) fix the first appointment for his successor, at the church nearest the parsonage, or place of boarding; and shall allow him thereafter, at least one week, to arrange for the year; during which time, (the day to be fixed the preceding year by the Preacher and Stewards,) the Stewards shall hold the first meeting at the parsonage or place of boarding, at which it shall be the duty of each Steward to attend.

4. Each Board of Stewards respectively, shall ascertain the whole claim against the circuit for the current year, both for quarterage and traveling expenses, as definitely as possible; and they shall then make an estimate of the family expenses of the Preacher or Preachers of the circuit, including servants' hire and house rent, (if a house is to be rented,) and the entire claim against the circuit for the current year, shall be apportioned to the several congregations composing the circuit, forthwith; each congregation to be notified immediately of the amount it is expected to collect.

5. The Stewards shall divide the congregations composing the circuit among themselves, and shall make all necessary efforts to collect the amounts apportioned to them.

6. It shall be the duty of the Stewards to open subscription books in each congregation, to meet the current claim; and they shall also cause public collections to be taken up, if they deem it necessary, for the same purpose.

7. The Stewards shall settle with the Preachers quarterly, and to this end the subscriptions shall be taken in quarterly installments.

8. The Conference collections for the support of our Superannuated Preachers, and to meet the claims of Preachers, widows, and orphans of Preachers, and to meet the claims of Preachers deficient in quarterage, shall be taken up in each congregation, as early in the year as practicable.

9. The Board of District Stewards shall be a Standing Board for four years; provided, nevertheless, that should any vacancy occur in the Board, such vacancy shall be supplied by the Quarterly Conference; and each District Steward shall be charged with collecting the amount apportioned for the Presiding Elder, to the circuit or station where he resides.

10. The Board of District Stewards shall be charged with the work of supplying the District parsonages with suitable furniture, and shall be authorized to take up collections for the object, in their respective charges.

11. Each member of the Joint Board, and more especially the Chairman thereof, shall feel it his duty to be active in endeavoring to improve the financial condition of the Church, by correspondence with the Stewards of the several charges, by public addresses to the Church, at suitable times, or in any other way he may deem best.

12. The Circuit Steward shall make arrangements early in the year, if they deem it necessary, to receive from the congregations assigned to them, such provisions as they may be able to give, for the support of the Preacher's family, which shall be delivered at the parsonage, at market prices, and shall be placed to the credit of the Church sending it, as family expenses.

13. The Board of Stewards, on their respective charges, are requested to co-operate with the ministers laboring them, in securing the amount the charge has been requested to collect as Conference collection, by private applications to our wealthier members, and, if necessary, by public collections in their respective congregations.

14. The respective Board of Stewards shall have authority to retain any surplus Conference collections to meet the deficiencies, if any, in the current expenses in the charge where it is collected.

15. The Missionaries are requested to solicit donations for the benefit of the superannuated Preachers, widows, and orphans of Preachers, together with deficient effective preachers of the Conference, from the white membership of the Church under their care.

16. The Presiding Elders shall constitute a Standing Committee to ascertain the names of claimants, and the amount of claim each has upon the funds managed by the Board, which information shall be placed in the hands of some member of the Board, during the first or second day of the session of the Conference, annually.

17. Whenever an effective claimant receives on his work an amount equal to his quarterage, he shall have no claim on the funds of this Board.

18. We recommend all our circuits and stations to publish, from year to year, in one or more of the papers published in the district or county, the names of the Stewards of each circuit and station for the current year.

EXPLANATIONS.

We propose to give here a short notice of the different columns found under each month in this Almanac. The first column is simply the days of the year, counted from 1 to 365. This column is given in Almanacs of higher grade, and it seems worthy of being introduced here, as it may be frequently useful. It will save time and trouble when we have to answer questions like this: How many days are there from 10th February to 12th August, &c.? The next columns are the days of the month and week, and need no explanation. Then come the columns of "Sun Rise" and "Sun Set." These will answer for any year when once calculated for a particular place. They will also answer without material error for any other place in the same latitude. These columns give the mean time (corrected for refraction), when the upper edge of the sun rises or sets. The next column gives the EQUATION OF TIME (to the nearest minute), and may need some explanation. Suppose a clock, running with perfect regularity, to strike 12 on a given day precisely as the sun's centre is on the meridian, it will not strike 12 the next day precisely as the sun crosses the meridian, but will strike a little before or after, depending on the season of the year, the difference between them will not be great in one day, but let them go on for weeks or months and the clock will be a quarter of an hour behind, or before, the sun's passage over the meridian. This difference is owing to several causes, one of which may be mentioned. The sun moves (we speak according to its apparent motion) irregularly, more slowly at one time, more rapidly at another. So that the intervals between its successive passages over the meridian are constantly changing, some of them being over twenty-four hours, and others under, making twenty-four hours the average interval. Now to avoid confusion it has been thought best to let the clock go on its regular course, striking 12 (midday) every twenty-four hours, without changing it every few days to make it and the sun agree. It is 12 o'clock, apparent time, when the sun is on the meridian. It is 12 o'clock, mean time, when a good clock strikes 12. It is only on a few days in the year that the sun and clock agree. The difference between them at all other times is called the Equation of time. It is given in the Almanacs for the use of those who wish to set or try their time pieces by a dial or sun mark. If, on a given day, you wish to set your watch by a noon mark or dial, look opposite that day in the Almanac, under the column Equation of Time. If it says "to be added" 5 minutes, it means that when your mark says 12 you must add 5 minutes, and put your watch at 5 minutes past 12. If, on the given day, the column says "to be subtracted," then you will put your watch at 5 minutes to 12, or behind the sun. The hours given in the Almanac for Rising, Southing, &c., and of Moon and Planets, are in mean or clock time.

In the middle of the page, will be found the usual items of Astronomical matter. Many intelligent readers pass by these as useless or difficult; but the signs used are few, the same in all Almanacs, and are well worth the few moments study they will require to understand them. They are useful, just as the mark $ is useful, to save the time and space which the word DOLLARS would require if written at length. If we wish to say that Venus and the Sun come to the meridian at the same time on a given day, we express that clearly and briefly by three little signs \odot $&$ \oplus . And so the usual and frequently recurring combinations among the heavenly bodies are indicated by signs.

The columns on the right hand of the page are given to the moon. These form the most tedious part of the calculations in an Almanac. We have said the time of SUN RISE and SUN SET, when once calculated for a given place, will answer for any year. It is entirely different in the case of the moon. A last year's Almanac will give you no help, whatever, in tracing out the moon's phases or motions for this year. The first column gives its RISING OR SETTING. It is not usual (as in the case of the sun) to give both, as one of them must take place in the day time when it attracts no attention. The RISING of the moon is given when it occurs at night, that is from full moon to new; and, for a like reason, the SETTING is given from new moon to full. It is easy to see by running the eye down this column that there is great irregularity in the intervals between successive risings or settings. The moon rises later every evening by a period varying from a half hour (nearly) to considerably over an hour, the average being perhaps fifty minutes. This interval varies at different seasons of the year and from year to year. There are two full moons in the fall (September and October), which rise for several successive nights after shorter intervals than at any other season. In higher latitudes these intervals are very small, and in England the Harvest moon and the Hunter's moon are striking and well known. The difference, however, in our latitude is not so great; and for this year the benefits of these moons, even in high latitudes, will be less striking than they usually are. As there is always a period of more than twenty-four hours between two successive risings of the moon, a day must pass in every month in which it does not rise at all. Suppose, for example, it rises a little before twelve on Tuesday night, its next rising will be after twelve on Thursday morning, so that on Wednesday there will be no rising of the moon. In these cases in the Almanacs the date is left blank, or the printer takes advantage of the blank to insert the word "Morn." The very same thing occurs in the columns of High Tide and Southing. The next column gives the age of the moon every day at 12, in days and tenths of a day, the fraction continuing the same until a new moon. The next column gives the place of the moon in the signs. The young Astronomer who refers to this column must remember the difference between the sign Aries, and the constellation Aries, &c. The next column gives the phases of the moon for the month, and another gives the passage of the moon over the meridian of Charleston, or its southing as it is usually called, because when on the meridian it is due south of us. The intervals between successive southings are also very irregular. The position too of the moon, when on the meridian, varies greatly from month to month, and from year to year. Sometimes in the latitude of Charleston, when on the meridian, it is within a few degrees of the zenith. Again, when on the meridian here, it is scarcely thirty degrees above the horizon. Its meridian heights this year will be greatly within these extreme limits. The last column gives the time of high tide at Charleston.

THE TIDES.

There are, all along the sea coast, a regular rise and fall of the waters of the ocean once in every twelve and a half hours nearly. This effect is caused by the attraction of the sun and moon, hence the high tide follows the passage of the moon over the meridian of any place, at intervals of time, varying not only in different places (owing to the outline of the coast, &c.), but varying also at the same place, within narrow limits from day to day. The tides are higher at new and full moons than at other times. In the last column under each month will be found one high tide every day at Charleston Harbor. The tide here given is the one immediately following the moon's southing. Half way between any two successive tides given is the intermediate one, which can be easily supplied. The hours given there may be made to give the tides in other ports by adding to them the time given in the first column below. These calculations have been based on the last data of the United States Coast Survey. (Vol. 1859, p. 139.)

Spring tides are those at new and full moon. Neap tides are those at first and third quarter. The least interval at Charleston between the moon's passage and high tide is 7h. 2m., the greatest 7h. 50m., the mean interval being 7h. 26m. The tides in the Gulf of Mexico are small (average 1 ft.) and usually there is but one in 24 hours.

SEASONS OF THE YEAR.

The Sun enters Aries (♈) March 20th, 8h. 19m., morning, when Spring begins. Day and night equal.

The Sun enters Cancer (♋) June 21st, 4h. 53m., evening, at the Summer Solstice. Longest days.

The Sun enters Libra (♎) September 23d, 7h. 16m., morning, when Autumn begins. Day and night again equal.

The Sun enters Capricornus (♐) December 22d, 1h. 20m., morning, when Winter begins. Shortest days.

CHRONOLOGICAL CYCLES.

Dominical Letter.....F	Solar Cycle28
Epact.....25	Roman Indiction.....10
Lunar Cycle6	Julian Period.....6580

The above notes are always given in Almanacs, yet very little use is made of them by most persons, perhaps a short explanation may have some interest for our young readers. The first DOMINICAL LETTER, F, is the Almanac way of telling on what day of the week the year begins. It was the custom once to use the first seven letters of the alphabet in the Almanac, putting A opposite New Year's day, B opposite January 2, and so on to G, and then repeating these letters in order through the year. The letter which fell opposite the first Sunday in the year was called the Dominical Letter (from the old Latin name of Sunday, Dominicus Dies) of that year. Now when it is said above, that F is the letter for 1867, it means that if A should be put opposite January 1, and B opposite January 2, &c., F would fall on Sunday. Then it is easy to see that E, the letter just before F in order, must fall on Saturday, the day just before Sunday, and we find that A must fall on Tuesday, which begins the year. And thus the Dominical Letter being given, we find very easily on what day of the week January begins, and when that is found we can arrange the whole year. A moment's reckoning will show that February will begin with D, March will begin also with D, and the successive months of the year will begin with the letters of the alphabet as follows:

January,	February,	March,	April,	May,	June,
A	D	D	G	B	E
July,	August,	September,	October,	November,	December.
G	C	F	A	D	F

This will be the order of the letters as they will begin the different months in every year (except a Leap Year, which will be noticed presently), A being put opposite New Year's Day. When the Sunday letter of a particular year is given, then we can at once, for that year, associate each letter with its day of the week, as the letters follow in the order of the alphabet through week after week. And if we could remember the order of the letters as they begin the months above, we could instantly tell on what day of the week each month in the given year begins. Now to help the memory to retain this arbitrary order, A, D, D, E, &c., the following lines have been used for perhaps two centuries, so that age will give them a certain dignity, to which they are scarcely entitled as poetry.

At Dover Dwells George Brown Esquire,
Good Christopher Finch And David Friar.

With these in the memory, knowing the Dominical Letter of any year, we can readily find the week day answering to any day of the month, and thus we are able to gratify a natural curiosity to know exactly on what day of the week any great event occurred. A Leap Year, by throwing in an extra day at the end of February, breaks in on the above order of letters, as one letter will fall on the Sundays in January and February, and another letter on each remaining Sunday in the year. A Leap Year then has two Dominical Letters, the first answering for January and February, the other for the remaining months. Any one in a few minutes may become familiar with the Dominical Letter and its uses, and then a table of these letters for a number of years will furnish an answer to many questions which occur to us in our reading.

We give on the next page a table of this kind with the Dominical Letter for every year in the Christian Era, past and indefinitely forward:

EXPLANATION OF TABLE.

Suppose we wish to find the letter of any year as 1866. Find 66 among the numbers and starting from it pass along the same horizontal line to the right, until you are under the CENTURY figure 18, and there you have the letter G. Again, to find 1776, find the number 76 and pass on that line to the right as before, until you are under CENTURY 17, and there is the letter F. Remember that leap years have two letters, one for January and February, the other for the rest of the year. This table gives but one, the one which is for the greater part of the year. The one for January and February can easily be supplied as it is always the next letter below the one given in the order of the alphabet. Thus the letters for 1776 are G F. The G is to be used if you are searching for a date in January or February, and F for the rest of the year. The letter for 1860 was G, but this was leap year, and another letter is wanted for January and February. As no letters below G are used, A is considered as next to it, and then the letters for 1860 are A G.

The century figures below the table are those for old style. To find the letter for 1492, (O. S.) find 92 as before, and pass to the right until you are over the century figure 14, and you have the letter G. If the letter for an even century is wanted as 1800, start from 00 in the beginning corner and go on as before. And this is, also, the starting point for any even century O. S. The letter for 1500, O. S. for instance, is D.

SEPT. 2, 1752, is put conspicuously just below the table, because that is in English History the day when old style ceases and new style begins. If the date in question then is one in English literature, and earlier than September 2, 1752, use the O. S. century figure at the bottom.

Most of the nations of Europe changed their style October 4, 1582. If the date sought is in General History, this must be borne in mind.

The next note, Epaet 25, simply means that at the beginning of the year the moon is 25 days old.

The Lunar Cycle, as the name implies, has reference to the Moon also. It is found that if a new moon occurs on New Year's day for instance, nineteen years must pass before a new moon can fall on that date again. This series of 19 years, after which the new and full moon's fall on the same day of the month (not at the same hour however), was discovered many centuries ago, and in the earlier stages of Astronomy was much used, and was sometimes called the golden number. The year 1861 closed a cycle of this kind, and was 19. The next year began another with 1.

The next, SOLAR CYCLE 28, does not refer to the Sun, as might be inferred from the name, but to Sunday Letters, Sunday having been also called DIES SOLIS. This year begins on Tuesday, and must end on Tuesday. Next year will begin on Wednesday, so that if nothing occurred to break the series after seven years, Tuesday will again begin the year; but leap year does derange the series, so that it is only after 28 years (7×4) that the Dominical letters, Leap years and all, will repeat the same order. This year finishes such a cycle, and 1868 will appear in the Almanacs as Solar Cycle 1.

The next cycle, Roman Indiction, was once a period of the Roman Empire, with no astronomical meaning. It would long since have disappeared from the Almanac but for its connection with the one following. The Julian Period is intended to include an exact number of each of the three preceding cycles, Lunar, Solar, and Roman Indiction. The least number which contains 28, 19, and 15, is that number which is the product of these three terms, viz., 7980. This period of 7980 Julian years was suggested by Joseph Scaliger, the historian, as a universal era, which, if brought into general use, would render unnecessary any other epoch to identify a particular year. He found by counting backwards that no year bore the same number in all these cycles (Lunar, Solar, and Roman), until he reached 709 before the creation of the world. That year is 1 in each of these cycles; he, therefore, suggested that, as the starting point of his all-embracing series. It is called Julian, because it contains a number of common or Julian years.

Some will think that too much space has been given to these elementary explanations; but, familiar as these things may be to some, they are by no means so to others who may wish to understand as thoroughly as possible, the little volume which is oftener in their hands than any other. Dr. Lardner says: "One might imagine that a book so universally necessary would be as universally understood; nevertheless, it may be fairly questioned whether one in ten thousand of those who daily consult it, have any clear or definite notions of the import of even those parts to which they refer, and it is beyond all doubt that of many other parts they have no notion whatever."

ECLIPSES OF 1867 (MARCH AND SEPTEMBER.)

There must be at least two eclipses of the sun in every year, and there may be as many as five. It is not meant that in any one place there must be two solar eclipses visible, but there must be two visible in some parts of the earth. An eclipse of the sun is caused by the moon coming between us and the sun, hence the sun may be eclipsed to one spot, and may be shining full on another spot of the earth's surface, just as a hill may be darkened (or eclipsed) by the shadow of a cloud passing over it, while a neighboring hill is in the clear sunshine.

An eclipse of the moon is different, it is caused by the moon entering into a dark shadow; it is just as if the moon was painted black to that extent, so that all who see the moon must see it eclipsed. Every lunar eclipse must be seen by half the globe. This is the reason why, though there are more solar than lunar eclipses, yet any one person sees more lunar than solar eclipses. Some years (as 1857), pass without a single eclipse of the moon, and there can not be more than three. The highest number of both solar and lunar eclipses never happens in one year. The greatest number of eclipses of both kinds, possible in any year, is seven, while the smallest is two; both extremes are rare, however, the usual number being four, two of each kind. This is the number and kind of eclipses in 1867; one solar and lunar in March, and six months after, another one of each in September.

Eclipses of Sun.

1. An annular eclipse of the sun March 6, invisible in America.
2. A total eclipse of the sun August 29, invisible in N. America.

Eclipses of Moon.

1. A partial eclipse of the moon visible over the United States March 20.

	H. M.

" " Shadow.....	1.56	" " "
Middle of Eclipse.....	3.29	" " "
Moon leaves Shadow.....	5.03	" " "
" " Penumbra.....	6.13	" " "

At the middle of the eclipse, eight-tenths of the moon's surface will be covered. The eclipse will then be visible to all that half of the world of which the central spot is a point on the equator south of Sandwich Islands.

2. A partial eclipse of the moon, partially visible in the United States September 13.

	H. M.
Moon enters Penumbra.....	4.23	Evening, Charleston time.
" Shadow.....	5.37	" " "
Middle of Eclipse.....	7.07	" " "
Moon leaves Shadow.....	8.36	" " "
Moon leaves Penumbra.....	9.50	" " "

Greatest portion of moon's surface eclipsed seven-tenths. As the moon does not rise here until after it enters the shadow, it will rise eclipsed, and in some parts of our country under favorable circumstances, there may be seen a rather unusual spectacle—the moon having eclipsed in the east before the sun has entirely disappeared in the west. The middle of this eclipse will be visible to that half of the globe of which the central spot is the Gulf of Guinea.

The time of any phase of these lunar eclipses may be found for any other place by simply adding 4 minutes for every degree of difference between the longitude of the place and that of Charleston, where it is east, and subtracting 4 minutes for every degree where the place is west of Charleston.

OCCULTATIONS.

As the moon's path lies in a part of the sky that is crowded with stars, it is a very common occurrence for it to pass over, or eclipse, a star. The stars so eclipsed are usually small, and being overpowered by the light of the moon, these occultations have no popular interest. Occasionally a planet, or star of the first magnitude, is covered by the moon, and then it attracts some attention. During this year Venus will be eclipsed several times, and Mars once by the Moon; but, in all these cases, the planets will be below our horizon at the time. The bright star, Aldebaran (Southern eye of the Bull), will be eclipsed (or to some places it will only be a near conjunction) on the following nights: February 12, evening; November 13, morn, visible by us.

MOVEABLE FEASTS.

Septuagesima Sunday.....	Feb. 17	Rogation Sunday.....	May 26
Quinquagesima Sunday.....	March 3	Ascension Day.....	May 30
Ash Wednesday.....	March 6	Pentecost.....	June 9
Palm Sunday.....	April 14	Trinity Sunday.....	June 16
Easter Sunday.....	April 21	Advent Sunday.....	Dec. 1

Ember weeks are those beginning March 10, June 9, September 15, and December 15. The Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday in these weeks are ember days. The Movable Feasts are regulated by Easter. Easter Sunday "is the first Sunday after the Full Moon, which happens upon or next after the twenty-first day of March." It moves about in the year from March 22, earliest possible, to April 25, latest possible date.

THE PLANETS.

MERCURY will be farthest from the Sun in the evening sky, March 9, July 6, October 31. It will be farthest from the Sun in the morning sky, April 22, August 21, December 9. Perhaps at some of these times it may be seen just before the Sun rises or after it sets.

VENUS is morning star until September 25. It is farthest from the Sun February 20, when it rises more than three hours before him. This planet, however, is brightest a short time before this, about middle of January, when, perhaps, it may be seen in the day time.

MARS is finely situated for observation early in the year, being in opposition to the Sun January 10. It is then in the Constellation Gemini, very near Pollux. In the closing month's of the year, it is too near the Sun to be seen well. Venus and Mars are very near each other November 14.

JUPITER is in the Constellation Capricornus in January, and sets nearly two hours behind the Sun early in the month. In the latter part of February it passes into Aquarius, where it remains for the rest of the year. Jupiter and Venus are very near together March 31.

SATURN is in the Constellation Libra all the year. In March and following months, it may be seen in the evening. It is on the meridian at midnight, May 11. In November it passes the Sun and is seen in the morning.

URANUS is in Gemini, not far from the spot where it was discovered by the elder Herschel on the night of 13th March, 1781, having lately finished its first revolution since then Uranus stays in one Constellation about seven years.

 All full Moon's fall between the 10th and 20th of every month this year.

These phases are repeated under the head of each month. They are given here at one view for the convenience of those who wish to consult them to form their guesses with regard to the weather. The following rules are considered important by some. Our readers may test their value by experience.

TABLE FOR FORETELLING THE WEATHER

THROUGH ALL THE LUNATIONS OF EACH YEAR.

This Table and the accompanying remarks are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon, in their several positions respecting the Earth, and will, by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of its quarters, and that so near the truth as to be seldom found to fail.

Observations.—The nearer the time of the Moon's change to noon or midnight, the more nearly will the result accord with the prediction.

It is also said that less dependence is to be placed on the Table in Winter than in Summer.

Astronomical Remarks.

Capricornus and Delphinus on the meridian at 9 P.M. in the middle of the month.

The Stars most useful to sailors are the following, lying along the Moon's path:—Arietis, Aldebaran, Pollux, Regulus, Spica, Antares, Altair, Fomalhaut, Markab.

Plantation Work for September.

Continue to sow field turnips, carrots, and beets. Southern seed for this sowing is always better than the imported: those from the latter are apt to run to seed early in the spring, unless it be English seed. Prepare lands for sowing rye in October. Pick cotton; harvest corn.

10th Month.
31 days.

Begins
Tuesday.

Sun enters
Scorpio
23d day, 3h. 23m.
evening.

Gardener's Calendar for October.

You may make two sowings of cabbages this month, and, if of English seed, they will not "run" in the spring. Sow lettuce; hoe turnips, and thin; put out leeks and onions; sow principal crop of spinage; earth up celery.

LAW RELATIVE TO THE TAX AND REMOVAL OF COTTON.

1. There are no restrictions upon the removal of cotton between points in the same Collection District—as, for instance, between Beaufort and Charleston, Sumter and Georgetown, or Newberry and Columbia.

2. Cotton may be removed from one Collection District to another, as follows: Upon payment of the tax of three cents per pound, the Collector or Deputy Collector will affix to each bale or package the metallic stamp used to denote tax paid, and issue his permit for its removal. The permit must state the amount and payment of the tax, the time and place of payment, and the marks, numbers, and gross weight of the bales or packages, so that they may be identified. In the permit the Collector or Deputy must insert the letters and numbers of the stamps or tags. On presentation of this permit the cotton can be moved out of the limits of that Collection District.

3. When it is desired to remove the cotton without payment of the tax, it is necessary to apply to the Collector, and make an entry on a form prepared, and execute a bond for the payment of tax to the Collector of the District to which it is to be transported within ninety days of the date of the bond. Upon the execution of this bond, the Collector certifies the fact to the Assessor, who gives a permit for its removal.

4. The bond may be given by the consignee in the District to which the cotton is to be shipped, and transmitted to the Collector of the District in which the cotton is produced. The bond being properly filed, the Assessor will issue permits based upon the weight as reported by the owner. Any want of accuracy in such report of receipts is to be corrected by the certificate of the weigher at the point to which the cotton was shipped. This avoids the necessity of having the cotton weighed by a government officer prior to shipment.

5. Any attempt to remove cotton without compliance with the above conditions, exposes the parties to heavy fines and penalties.
